

THE YORKSHIRE COLLEGE,
LEEDS.

June 13. 1893

Dear Sir

We have received from you through the Queens College Museum a number of extremely interesting & valuable zoological specimens I hardly know of any selection which could have been made which would include so many desiderata. Please to accept our most heartily thanks for the collection. We have no such treasures to offer in exchange, but if we can help you to build up your own collections it will be a pleasure to show our gratitude.

My own work of late has related to life-histories of insects, especially Diptera.

Would you care to have the stages of a number of these? I can think of nothing else to offer.

Yours very truly
L. C. Miall
