Dear Professor,

I am sorry to hear that the last vacation was again given over to work, and that you contemplate devoting the next to the cheerful savages of Lake Eyre. This will never do. No man can work at high pressure, like you are doing, all the time, and even for the sake of the work a rest would be beneficial.

As one who has cultivated leisure idleness for years, and who knows its charms I would strongly recommend spending the next vacation with the tribal French in some quiet spot.

well. In fact there are several patches of green the sign of a tablecloth between her's and Mr. Pratt's, and a friendly mirror occasionally puts a few tacks on the surrounding tablelands, so that the view from the office door is at times deceiving. It has been rather busy lately finishing and yard building, and the hawks have been hard at work. Practically imported Curottoes which a member of the tribe has brought over from Queensland. Still how scarce in setting a few miles, and the tribes are now out after Paragale and Hansons. Macropodes Phascogale are not about at present, but they are sure to turn up later on, when the weather gets warmer.

By this mail I am sending you a small tin of beast's meat.
To have feragale, and some butter
for French, when the expedition returns.
The wretched will not reach for butter, or if they do they bring a bottle full of one sort—generally the common from ours with the buggy odour.
Things are not looking too bright for England in Carlyle, with Russia and France continually encroaching, and ‘Dives Right Bill’ extorting America and making an ass of himself.
It will be a terrible war when it comes,
and I don’t think it can be far off.
Gillen planned to here in two or three weeks on route for Oklahoma where he leaves Mrs. Gillen and returns to Alice Springs. That is if he can resist the temptation of a flying visit to Town. The blacks meditate shifting their camp to Oodnadatta while he is in this vicinity.
I have not heard anything of Spemm.
for some time, but I will deliver your messengers when they come up.
