My dear Spencer

Saturday's train brought Thomas my luggage also care of phones cylinders from Henderson.
The Alligator was unpacked at once & half an hour after its arrival my yard wall was lined with boys clamouring to get in to view it. But at once reigned the fly tent & furnished it as a museum with the Alligator's head & Pelicans head as the principal objects of attraction. There never was such excitement in our back yard till Spencer enjoyed the fun as much as anyone I wish you could have seen it all. Jacks letter is that I liked the Allegator after it had taken a labor I am enclosing Howard's letter from which you will see that one of the cylinders was broken in transit from Melbourne I do not quite like Paragraph 2 of Howard's letter I hope that he is not up to any tricky prandly infinging patent rights. He said nothing to me personally about keeping not withstanding that he was doing the reproductions, if he had I should have wanted Jacks information before referring him to you. As to cost of reproduction I think Mr. Angus Johnston would gladly pay at any rate it would be no harm to get Gies to sound him. You could give him an estimate of amount required to pay cost of distribution to the various institutions. With that thought of it then in some but unfortunately I missed seeing Mr. Johnston. If you don't write to Gies I will for I don't see why you can't pay. Howard says perhaps they don't understand the Mignon

'c' I don't understand perhaps it is his idea of a job. There not unpacked the cylinders yet but will do so tomorrow. Are they being done on Valcomite? I am told that there is a machine here with Valcomite cylinders - I find list of accounts today 16/.

Two Luggage
came by the Pelham to Mr Advertiser

to showing to rail & agency charges on luggage 2y. There is now a credit balance of £110:8:2 I propose sending you cheque for this amount & closing the Advertiser accounts you wish me to pay

Am gradually settling down but I am not feeling too happy the office work is dreary & the people really are tiresome.

Love to the girls & kind
