My dear Spencer,

Warren had really wonderful luck in Melbourne, none of the horses he backed before going over won a race yet his own won £166 17s or that amount less £250. I can't quite make out the total. He ordered jubilantly the other day. Clearly he greatly enjoyed himself at your house. I know about Mrs. Spencer & the Hiddeins. I am delighted that he won but I am getting a little anxious about him. The telling hand is growing upon him & to make this win he must have run serious risks. I pray to the Lord I could lay my hands...

I wrote to Mr. James, a letter while ago about the informal allége on the University and enclosing his reply. I am glad that he is any rate is true to Alma Mater. I did not know that he had lost his seat. You don't quite like him but I feel sure he is a right good fellow. I hope he has no more serious illness in Australia. If he had sailed with Lyme this year, I should have hated him. I should like to have met your influential friends — Gros, if has money to acquire his losses for Lord Arundel. Things.
