

May 5. 83.

the Prince & Wales here everything passed off swimmingly even down to the shying of lumps sugar on to the eads below my window. No end of persons such as Salisbury, Antwerp, Northbrook, Cranbrook, etc were on view & as all had on their scarlet, crimson & gold gowns & hoods the sight was really fine.

My balcony came in well & after the ceremony like the Master of Balliol & I "entertained a small party to luncheon". One man took a photo. from my rooms of the whole affair so I am rather hoping he may hand me one over.

This week Ruskin begins his lectures again on Modern English and the first next Saturday on "Burne Jones & Watts."

I must stop as I see there is only just time to get to chapel & I want to "keep me" this aft.

If possible I will write again during the week.

Could you drop me a card with
