ALLEYNE HOUSE,
ST ANDREWS,
SCOTLAND.

Dec 16.

My dear Sir
Messrs Macmillan
kindly let me read
the proofs of your
most valuable book,
and I wrote to Mr George Macmillan in stone churinga lately
found in Scotland.
The markings correspond to the markings,

but in Proceedings of Scottish Society of Antiquaries 1888-1889,

(p. p. 140-142) are marked locks, and marked portable
stones, with notes for inspection, in Vol 1895-96.

p. 291
The latter I have seen in published and some of them are practically identical with drawings.

It would answer slightly and if you could tell me whether Tavanayriska, the spirit whose voice is (caps and circles) on locks, which have long puzzled antiquaries, and I have little doubt that the Austrian and British facts are in a ~~con~~ consideration unhappily nothing

I found in published in the most recent

Scottish finds, still in course of excavation,

represented by the Bull Kuarer, was any of the attributes assigned by Mr Howitt and others to Kairame.

Daramulun, Mungun
gwan, and other beings who preside over initiation rites in Southern Australia; and whether tribal morals and taboos are under his sanction.

Believe me

Truly yours

Burden Lang
