My dear General

We have frequently kept Aoudads = Marbury Sheep - our trapezoides - at the Zoological Gardens, & they have done very well & breeding freely. They require a high fence, as they are good jumpers, & the male is powerful animal, & rather fond of butting with his horns against the bars - perhaps in a larger space they could be printed. There is no rather small den they were kept in at the founders. I have never heard of any being kept elsewhere in England, but they would be worth trying.

The Japanese Deer do remarkably well at Lord Powerscourt's in Ireland, as the Victor Moose and to keep some.
I will enquire at the founders why you have not heard about them. You will have with a newspaper - did I always think adds greatly to the interest of a country place.

long time to come -
They are full-grown and the male has a magnificent Beard and long hair on the front legs He stands 3 feet high at the shoulder and is 3 feet in length, the female is  $2\frac{1}{2}$  feet high at the shoulder - In order to facilitate
