My dear General

The Vicar of Harnham was here to-day, school inspecting and he told me that Lord Radnor is selling some land just outside East Harnham and part of it contains an old Saxon burial ground which was opened some forty years ago. & six ty skeletons were dug up, one of the skulls of which gave the name to the Barnham type of skull, which of course you know all about.

No Hall thinks of this land is sold for building purposes there would be no opportunity of any further research but it might in some way be preserved for further investigation. When he comes to me for School inspector he might come over and have an interview with you or maybe call upon you if you were going to Salisbury. It seems amazing that something should be done about

it. What a day it
