Dear Sir,

I have this day
sent you by parcel post an old lock from an old Church door at Shrewton.
There is not much of interest in it I fear, but such as it is, you are most welcome to it. The key seems to fit, but it appears to me not to be the original one, as I fancy it looks more modern than the lock.

I have seen today a fine old lock which was taken from the chief door of Mr.
Fisher's house when it was pulled down some years ago.
It is a large lock somewhere about 15 in x 10 as far as I can remember, and much has cost a lot of money when new.
The key has ward at either end, and the whole thing is in good working order.
It belongs to Mr Lloyd the ironmonger here and I see he has it marked at 30/. but I have no doubt he would sell it for much less than that. If you happen to want a lock for a large door or gate, this would be a good one for the purpose, and if you worked it, I should be pleased to get it at the lowest price.

I am Sir
Yours truly
James Brown
