perforated skull which

I was particularly eager about and found it in comparison with those from this most interesting.

I wish very much that I had had time in so short a visit to examine the limb bones of the skeletons and the skulls in detail in the Museum

Dear Sir

I am extremely obliged to you for so kindly writing, and much regret not to have had the advantage of seeing you and hearing your opinion on the specimens which your assistant was good enough to show

I hope however at some future time to be able to return with more leisure to devote to studying the very wonderful collection you have made and shall then avail myself of your very kind permission to write to you beforehand.

Believe me

Faithfully yours

Victor Hensley
