My dear Sir.

I am just publishing a long article on "Cycling" and in it I have distinctly mentioned our conversation the other day at the Larmer Tree. You will remember telling me that you were thinking of forming a series illustrating the evolution of the Cycle. You may get some letters from readers of my article offering to put machines at your service for all purposes, and my note will prepare you for any such offers of help.

I was charmed with the Larmer Tree and hardly know how to thank you for your generosity and goodness in providing such places as the Science Tree ground and the Museum.

Believe me, dear Sir,

Yours Truly
