

(L138)
23A, SUSSEX SQUARE,

HYDE PARK, W.

31 Oct. 1883

Antiquary

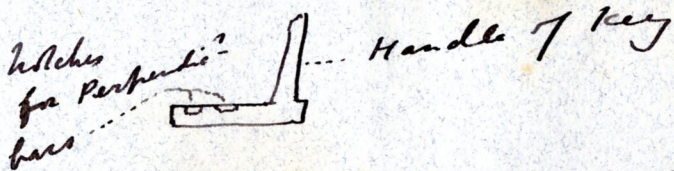

Sir,

observing that you are interested in locks & keys I take the liberty of forwarding a key for your inspection which may present novel features to you.
It is one of a kind used in unfrequented parts of Persia - This one was came from near Ispahan and is the one spoken of on Page 366 of my brothers book called Unexplored

Baluchistan" - (Publ'd 1882)

The notches in one arm fit ^{over} into the base of perpendicular bars belonging to the latch and then it is raised by lifting the other arm would you kindly return it at your convenience.

faithfully yours

Frederick A. Floyer