Dear Sir

I have received your letter this morning & thank you very much for your willingness to oblige me in the matter of Burton Bradstock, - had it been in your power now to do so.
Unfortunately I only saw that it was vacant the being last week. I had felt great reluctance to write to you about it, & when I had done so - I doubted whether I had not trespassed on your kindness; but now your friendly letter has shown me, that I had not done wrong in suggesting myself as a Candidate for the living.

Your latest discovery of flints for working at the British Works is very interesting. I should like to see it some time. I do not know, whether I have mentioned to you, that in my enquiry, as to the locality, where an oolitic clay can be found, such as may have been the material out of which that
