Dear Sir

I am sorry now that you consider the prices high, and that the things have been sent, because every day is a loss to me
in the sale of them.

I reduced the prices
of the lot in the first box from £172-10-0 to £150 for the lot; after all my trouble in collecting and bringing these things home, it is not worth the travelling expenses.

I shall now leave
the price of the first lot entirely in your hands, send me a cheque for the most
you can afford for
the lot.

Yours very truly
Edward Hartlett

General Pitt Rivers

P.S. Kindly remember you have the first
offer of these things.
