September 6. 1897.

Dear Sir.

With regard to the copies of your book placed on the table at Dorchester I ought to have received 14 (you gave one to Prof. Boyd Dawkins in the room) complete copies but could only rescue 10 complete copies and two odd parts. I made every endeavour to trace the missing copies but nobody would own up to having them. In spite of your clearly mentioning in your address that I was to take charge and subsequently distribute them the people made a rush for them and I had the greatest difficulty in getting back even those I did. One man even took two copies, you spoke to him about it, but these I did get from him. I am very sorry this should have happened for it reflects no credit on the members of the Institute. If ever I have to distribute any more books I shall take good care to sit on the pile and def. ~~every~~ ~~on~~ anyone to touch it. I enclose the list of names and also a letter received from the Norfolk & Norwich Arch. Soc.

Will you kindly at your convenience let me have the MS. of your presidential address for printing in the Journal.

I am, Dear Sir,
your very truly
Will Stephenson.
