Dear Sir

I am sending you to-day by goods train 50 specimens of stone imple-ments. On rereading your letter I see that you say about 20 but as I have packed them & do not think that number would give a fair idea of the collection I am letting them go with three pieces of bone found with some of the stones ^{mentioned} ²ded, in case they should be of interest. The gravel-pit near the Lark below.

I refer to the "drift" formation. I have besides another hundred palaeolithic & fifty neolithic specimens (my own classification) & some more bones found in some formation with former. Just a few amongst these may be doubtful.

Most of the palaeoliths are rude - some is such as to be interesting, to my mind, on that account. Also 3 ^{small} specimens of forgeries (as I suppose) should these interest you.

Every specimen I am sending is wrapped up separately in paper together with ticket giving locality &c. Each ticket is numbered ~~the~~ are also the stones themselves. I also enclose
