

I was also pleased to read in that Address your remarks on the antiquity of the Egyptian implements, and your reply to Dawson's absurd objections.

The one thing which has always struck me as so markedly characterizing your archaeological work is its extreme accuracy, and attention to even the most minute detail.
With kind regards,
I am, Yours gratefully,

Dear General Pitt-Rivers,

On returning to London, after a fortnight's absence, I have the pleasure to find your very handsome gift of your new Volume awaiting me. I lose no time in expressing

Maj-Gen. Pitt-Rivers, D.C.L., F.R.S., &c.

my warm thanks for your generosity in making me the possessor of this magnificent volume. As I have only just received it,
I have not yet had time to carefully examine it; but I am sure that it is a worthy successor to the three preceding volumes.

Some time ago I
read, with great interest, in the Archaeological Journal your address as President of the Dorchester Meeting of the Archaeological Institute, and I am therefore to some extent familiar with the contents of the fourth volume of your "Researches".
