Ludwell, Salisbury
Nov. 7, 02.

General Pitt-Rivers

Sir

I questioned my son respecting the old sword.
He tells me that he bought that one, and another, in Shaftesbury market, from a man from Salisbury who had a stall there for several weeks, selling all kinds of old Government stores. In fact there was a lot of them bought by different people.

Isaac Bennet called at his house about twelvemonth ago, selling it over the fireplace he bought it of him

I beg to remain Sir
Your Obedient Servant

William Catehouse Esq.

P.S. The man's name who sold them was Robert Growbridge
