BRITISH MUSEUM,

LONDON: W.C.

My dear General.

I can settle your files.
They are from Pagan not India & represent Jatakas.
The whole story is too long to give you in a letter but you can find a great deal more than I know of pictures besides, in the Indian Antiquary XXII. p. 727. in a paper by G. Temple. S. in Richard's son.

We have highly finished & thoroughly authentic glazed tiles from Persia dated ad. 1261 - I scarcely think these Pagan tiles are earlier than that though they may be.

Your last letter had a melancholy strain that rather distressed me. I am glad to hear you talk of a new room for arrangements - I will try and come down some time early in the year if I may.

Your very truly
Charles Darwin
