

58, Acre Lane,
London, S.W.

L2343

Jan^y. 27-'99

Dear Sir,

Your delightful book I have duly received, and very grateful am I for your kindness.

The new Franometer is an admirable improvement. The results as given in the specimens engraved are so satisfactory.

Pottery fig. ^{5 fig. 2} 5, Pl. 298 are very remarkable. curved lines! - If I remember rightly, Sir John Lubbock says, somewhere, that "he has never seen curved lines of ornamentation early on "British Pottery".

But there is much in the book which I am eagerly looking forward to.

Again thanking you,

Your faithful servant

W. Mumington