TOLLARD ROYAL RECTORY,
SALISBURY.

April 16. 1899.

Dear General Pitt-Rivers

Just a few lines today that Mr. Targett is going to be married this week; & also today that I was very sorry that, through leaving home, I could not accept of your kind invitation the other day. In my absence Mr.
Creuch called to see me & I presume it was upon the nature of our private conversation with regard to my offer of compensation for the shooting on Tollard Green, and doubtless I shall hear from him soon. I am, however, going to London to-morrow & shall be away a few days.

I am glad to hear that you are better & I hope you will continue so.

With kind regards to Mrs. Rivers & yourself

Believe me,

Yours faithfully

R. J. Palmer

Dear Mr Palmer.

You are quite mistaken in supposing that I have ever offered you compensation for shooting on Tollard Green. You have no right whatever to shoot there. If I ever offered Mr Waterfall compensation at all, it was for not shooting on his own land. That land I have ~~now~~ <sup>since</sup> purchased your Waterfall and it is no longer yours. I have directed Mr. Creech to go fully into the whole matter, at once

Yours Truly
A Pitt Rivers.
