Dear General

Your paper was most interesting, and I have been to Rudler to talk over your letter about it, and about the best way of doing justice to your work in the Journal. It struck me at first, & I found his views had been the same, that some illustrated notice of it ought to appear in our pages as a guide (to men who may hereafter be working at the subject) to the general contents of your book. They would then know better whether it would be likely to fall within their particular scope of inquiry, & if it did they would take pains to get at the book. Will you not then reconsider the matter & let us have some few of the prints with a little accompanying explanation; Rudler would gladly take pains to select if you were willing.

What a magnificent volume it will be - you are really doing the whole thing en prince. If I think of any really suitable recipients, other than you are likely to think of yourself, I will let you know. The only sad name that at present occurs to me is

James Frazer Esq
Trinity College
Cambridge

He is devoted to anthropology, and the authorities prolonged his Trinity fellowship for 5 years that he might work in it. He is very cultured and spends all his means in collecting books on anthropology, which he devours.

Very truly yours

Francis Galton
