CARDIFF NATURALISTS' SOCIETY.

Dear Sir,

I must apologise for not having acknowledged your very courteous letter earlier; I have been very much occupied with other matters. I will endeavour to have the measurements made so as to be comparable with others as far as possible, and I am greatly obliged to you for suggesting De Garon, but if the bones are too brittle to be sent to you the same thing applies to others. I can only say that if the remains could have been sent our Committee would have been most gratified if you could have seen your way to examine them. As it is I suppose Mr Storrie will have to make the measurements himself as well as he is able, and I will take care to place your suggestions before him.

I am, dear Sir,

Yours truly

R. W. Atkinson
