12 Rue Tour Notre Dame
Boulogne-sur-mer

September 3. 1891.

Monsieur Le Général,

Last year I did myself the honour to enquire on behalf of the Boulogne Museum Committee whether you would kindly extend your liberality so far as to present to the Museum a set of our Celtic Crosses.

In the letter with which you honoured me, you mentioned that my request could not meet with an immediate reply, because owing to the length of time required for preparing and finishing off the casts, these were not yet ready for distribution.

I am induced to renew my application now, because a recent accession of Roman and mediæval antiquities will ere long necessitate a general rearrangement of some galleries, so that we would avail ourselves of the opportunity to properly accommodate your gift if you would favourably entertain the request preferred.

I beg to subscribe myself, Messieurs Le Général,
Your most obedient servant

J. J. Pallaut

Secrétaire de la Commission des Musées de Belgique & &
