Miss Hoopkin naturally concluded that General Pitt Rivers desired both the same. Miss Hoopkin will see the kind of day & if possible prevent the forwarding of both copies; if however they should both have gone already Miss Hoopkin will beglad if General Pitt Rivers will return the small paper copy to some address -

Miss Hoopkin presents her compliments to General Pitt Rivers & regrets that she should have been any mistake about the small paper copy of "Early Celtic Pottery". But on ordering the large paper copy General Pitt Rivers omitted to countermand the small one & as most of the subscribers to the large paper edition have also
