Dear Sir, I am sorry that after my return to Edinburgh I was laid up for some time and thus prevented from sending you the information I promised about the stuffed specimens of

the Scottish Wild Ox
in this Museum.

All the three specimens we have were presented by the Duke of Hamilton. They are from His Grace's herd in Cadzow forest. I understand that great care is taken to keep the breed pure, every calf that shows any sign of crossing with the domestic cow being shot.

Yours very truly
R. Murdoch Smith
