

Subsequently lent me a copy of one of your antiquarian works. I trust you will pardon
my writing to you, &
also my presumption
in asking whether
you could give me
the book containing
your account of King John's Cottage?
I was telling one of our officers here of my

Gen. Pitt Rivers,
Dear Sir

About three weeks ago I had the great pleasure of visiting
Tollard Royal, Sarner Tree &c, which your kindness enables so many hundreds like myself to enjoy. J.
Wilkinson of Shaftesbury

recent visit to my old home; and he told me he remembered you and your sketch book years ago at Copenhagen. His name is Major Manning, a gentleman of considerable reputation on Celtic remains.

With thanks for pleasures already enjoyed from your public generosity.

I beg to remain, dear Sir, Yours truly
G.S. Watts.
