WHATCOMBE,
BLANDFORD.
—AND TELEGRAPH—

Nov. 17. 1887

My dear General Pitt Rivers

I have been compelled to my room & unable to write now & acknowledge the interest & feelings of Powell which which I will let J. A.
Carrivick see as well as a copy from the 'Senti' Mag.
I have no doubt he will concede if slightly trilled
It is sad to find such unmanageable people as he even to be - One of the old Irish type. I cannot write more to day. You shall hear from me again soon.

Ever yours truly
J. J. Mansel Pleydell

to it; any other day which might suit you, would be equally convenient to me, as I have no other engagement but the one mentioned.

For myself I would like the excuse of remaining at home, but the girl would be disappointed!

I will be very glad if you will stay with me, and hope to be able to make you comfortable.

Yours very truly

J. Mackintosh
