

Pitt

The Antiquary,

62, Paternoster Row,

London, E.C.

June 25. 1888.

L 505

Dear Sir

Thinking as I do that your work on Cranbourne Chase & Rushmore is the most important archeological publication of recent years, I am wishful that it should be dealt with adequately in the pages of the Antiquary. The space

space which I can devote to it among our ordinary Reviews is not sufficient for the purpose, and if you wd. care to lend two or three of the plates or blocks for illustration I should be pleased to devote an article
to the subject.

I have the honour
to remain faithfully yours,
Ed. Antiquary

General Pitt Rivers